The Magic can you hear it....

When you listen to the great one's of song, you hear that magic in there voice don't you? That special something that you just explain in words... you just realize that something in there voice jus move you. it's as through some strange spirit possesses you. And when that spirit hit's you, you just some how loose control... That magic over powers you and then it takes control and now your hooked. They seem to touch the pit of your soul... The sound put you in a trans... It's almost like someone say to you... "your under my power" it's the power of song... Is it magic or divine inter vention...
